

The New Methodist Episcopal Church, South
MARLINTON, WEST VIRGINIA

The above is the picture of the new Methodist Episcopal Church of Marlinton, which is now under construction. Ground was broken for the foundation very early Wednesday morning, June 14, 1922. The contractor is W. W. Kennison. The building will cost $53,185, exclusive of art glass windows and furniture. The dimensions are 109 feet by 50 feet. The site is adjoining the present church, and the edifice faces Court street.

The plans of this church embrace a most comprehensive working plant. The main auditorium with galleries and Sunday School room will seat more than a thousand people. There will be rooms for every department of the Sunday School in addition to the class rooms, and rooms for other activities of church work. In the basement will be a large and well equipped gymnasium.

The contract was let to W. W. Kennison, of Hillsboro, on Saturday June 3, 1922, and the work is to be completed within one year. The construction is to be of concrete brick, surfaced with buff or cream brick.

This will be one of the largest and finest churches in this part of the State.

W. L. REYNOLDS

W. L. Reynolds died at his home in Marlinton on the evening of June 10th, after an illness of more than five months. Age 44 yrs. and 22 days. Mr. Reynolds came to this county in 1909 and was employed by the Campbell Lumber Company as train man until they closed their works in 1914. He then came to Marlinton where he conducted a business of his own up to the time of his sickness. He is the oldest son of A. Reynolds and Virginia Entsminger Reynolds, who were formerly from Colliertown, Va. His mother died a number of years ago after which time his father moved to Pocahontas County.

Mr. Reynolds is survived by his wife, Mrs. Gertrude Roman Reynolds, to whom he was married in 1915, his father, A. Reynolds, his two brothers, Forest and Stokes, who live in or near Marlinton, and his brother, Aaron, who lives at Colliertown, Va.

After coming to Marlinton, Mr. Reynolds united with the Methodist Church and was a faithful attendant and active member up to the time of his illness, and the patience and fortitude with which he spent his long months of suffering are evidences of his Christian disposition.

The large number attending his funeral, which was conducted by his pastor, Rev. F. B. Wyand, at the Methodist Church, on Monday afternoon, speaks more for this worthy citizen than lips can tell or pen can write. His business brought him in touch with all classes and his devotion to duty and his pleasant and obliging disposition won a warm place in the hearts of all who knew him. He was honest, industrious, polite, and faithful to every trust. And it is this type of man that receives the admiration of real men and women and in one voice they say that they render the last act of kindness. "Thou hast been faithful enter thou into the joys of thy Lord."

WAR RISK INSURANCE

Major All, of the Compensation Department of the U. S. Veterans' Bureau of Charleston, was in Marlinton Monday and Tuesday. He is a veteran of the Spanish War, and a First Division veteran of the World War, after serving several terms in the Regular Army. His special business here at this time was to impress on the service men the importance of not neglecting their interests in the matter of War Risk Insurance. The opportunity to carry this Government Insurance is one of the best things the Department is doing for the service man, especially those who are not entitled by disability to other forms of compensation.

If you are an ex-service man, it is to your interest to look closely into the matter. If you have allowed your insurance to lapse, if you are still in good health, you may reinstatement practically no expense, and become the possessor of a valuable insurance and disability policy, at a cost certainly lower than you can purchase the same protection elsewhere.

Full information can be obtained from any office of the American Legion Post in your county, or by writing direct to the Veterans' Bureau, 211 Boyd Building, Charleston, W. Va.

This writer is delighted to chronicle that the Women's Club has secured the services of Miss Eolyn Graham, of Cass, as director of the public playground for the summer. Miss Graham is an experienced teacher, likes and is liked by children, and is fitted in every way to start the public playground work right.

Among the Pocahontas County young people at Lewisburg for the Conference this week are Misses Mary Hevener, Elizabeth Dunlap, Polly Smith, Geraldine Haupt, Betsy Price. Messrs. Hubert Slavin, Ewell Wiley and Roscoe Beverage.

Mrs. Randolph Harter, from Coburn, Pennsylvania, is with her mother, Mrs. Q. W. Poage, who has been very sick.

CORNER STONE

The most worshipful Grand Lodge of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons of West Virginia will lay the Corner Stone of Beards Chapel, near Beards, W. Va., at 12 o'clock noon, June 21, 1922. W. A. Hummer of Cass will act as Grand Master, Rev. F. H. Barron, D. D. of Ekins is expected as the orator.

All the Brethren of this and other jurisdictions are invited to be present and assist in this solemn occasion. Dinner will be served on the ground.

Every body cordially invited to be present.

Committee

Rev. H. H. Munroe, of Japan was here Sunday, to make an address to the children of the Presbyterian Sunday school at the annual mission Children's Day services. He also spoke at Swago and Huntersville on Sunday; again at Marlinton to the Women's Auxiliary on Monday afternoon and at Hillsboro at night. For seventeen years he has labored as a missionary in Japan, and his talks on the work of the missionary and the country are most wonderfully interesting and enlightening. Mr. Munroe expects to return to his field of labor sometime this fall.

Cass—The entertainment given at Cass Saturday night by Miss Lucile Fleming, Miss Frances Golden, and Miss Nida Cook was a decided success. It was voted the best that has come to Cass—better than any lyceum. The people are very thankful to these talented ladies and hope to hear them again.

The attendance at the Methodist Sunday School on last Sunday was 175, twenty less than the Sunday before. Children's Day service at the Presbyterian church and the attendance was 270, which was 75 more than the Sunday before.

The six millionth Ford automobile was built in the Ford Factory at Detroit on May 18, 1922. Five and a half millions were for use in the United States, and about five million of them are still in service.

At the recent General Conference of the Southern Methodist Church at Little Rock, Dr. J. H. Light, late of Marlinton, received a complimentary vote for Bishop. Other ministers known here who also received votes are Dr. H. H. Sherman and Dr. H. M. Canter.

The Marlinton Methodist Church is issuing a twelve page monthly paper, "The Marlinton Methodist." Rev. Fred B. Wyand is the editor.

Word has just been received from Miss Trump, of Morgantown, that she will be unable to be here this summer as play ground supervisor. Miss Eolyn Graham, of Cass, has been engaged to take her place, and will be here by the twentieth of June.

NEELEY FOR SENATOR

TO THE DEMOCRATIC VOTERS AND PROGRESSIVE MEMBERS OF ALL OTHER POLITICAL PARTIES OF WEST VIRGINIA:

After long and careful consideration I have determined to be a candidate for the democratic nomination for United States Senator from West Virginia, in the primary election to be held on the 1st day of next August.

If nominated and elected, I shall aid, to the limit of my capacity, in restoring to the people the progressive democratic government of Woodrow Wilson type and vigor, which a reactionary, selfish and incompetent republican administration has unblushingly banished from the land.

The democratic party's progressive legislation, its brilliant achievements and its exalted public policy under President Wilson's administration, which were unqualifiedly endorsed by the party's National Conventions in 1916 and 1920, shall be my constant guide throughout the campaign.

The Federal Reserve Act, the Clayton Act, the various Eight Hour Laws, the Federal Trade Commission Law, the Shipping Act, the Farm Loan Act and the Federal Aid for Good Roads Act, together with the many other great constructive measures of the Wilson administration, constitute the richest heritage of beneficent legislation the American people have ever received from any administration since party government began.

All of the laws above specified were supported by me as a member of the House of Representatives; all of them I have since defended and shall continue to defend upon the stump. These laws brought to the masses of the people the highest degree of prosperity and the fullest measure of participation in the affairs of their government that they have ever enjoyed.

Not one of these important democratic laws has an overwhelmingly republican Congress dared to repeal.

By defeating the covenant for a League of Nations the Republican Senate not only committed a crime against humanity, but it excluded untold millions of dollars worth of our commerce from foreign markets, thus producing one of the efficient causes of the ruinous decrease in the price of farm products, the closing down of innumerable factories and the throwing out of employment an army of wage earners as numerous as the sands of the sea.

Next, by reactionary and plutocratic administration of the Federal Reserve Law Republican officials brought further disaster upon the country. The policy of "deflation" deliberately promised in the republican platform of 1920, and drastically and mercilessly enforced by the Harding administration in 1921 and 1922, has (as was clearly pointed out in the recent democratic meeting in Huntersville) resulted in one year of Republican peace-costing the American people more than two years of democratic war.

While the Republican national administration has been rapidly and radically deflating the wages of labor, the salaries of employees, and the incomes of the people, a Republican state administration has been just as busy and effective in increasing property values in order to form a basis upon which to levy more taxes to meet the ever increasing cost of state government. Relief from the staggering burden of taxation can neither be realized nor hoped for until the present Republican reactionaries have been retired from office and real democratic servants of the people returned to power.

If elected, it shall be my unremitting care to aid in bringing about a real economic, efficient democratic administration of the law, in harmony with the Wilson ideals and in the interest of every citizen of the republic. I shall instantly and earnestly advocate the administration of the Federal Reserve System in the interests of all the people, rather than for the special benefit of a small group of Wall Street money changers, manipulators and gamblers.

West Virginia has been discriminated against in railroad rates and in the marketing of the products of her varied industries. Her dignity, her honor and her reputation have been bitterly assailed during this administration, on every hand, and without a single champion having defended her in the Senate; and without a single intelligent or effect protest having been made from the floor of that body in her behalf.

If elected, I shall endeavor to silence the defamers of our state and to bring to account those who are slandering her fair name and discriminating against her.

I have delayed announcing my candidacy for the Senatorial nomination for the reason that I had hoped that some other faithful, determined and enthusiastic supporter and advocate of Wilsonian democracy might enter the race. In that event I should have preferred to serve in the ranks and support some other available candidate. But I have waited long enough, and have waited in vain. There is much difficult and exacting work to be done for the party. Its organization must be strengthened, and its message of hope and promise and fulfillment must be proclaimed from every house-top and borne to every votary precinct in the state. Since no one else has volunteered to do it, I now offer my services and my leadership to all who are willing and ready to leave off winning about republican majorities and go to work to win a real victory for prosperity, progress and humanity.

I have entered this race, not only to obtain the nomination, but to win the election in November. Having entered I shall neither falter nor retreat. I have faith in the people and believe that a straightforward, intelligent and vigorous campaign made in their behalf will enlist their unstinted support and result in a victory for our party and its principles at the polls.

In my efforts to obtain this nomination no money will be spent by me, except to meet the absolutely legitimate demands of the campaign, which are clearly within both the letter and the spirit of the law.

In my opinion the country is tired of the disgraceful spectacle of a seat in the United States Senate being auctioned off to the highest bidder, as was recently done in the state of Michigan.

With the women now enfranchised and their fine sense of political righteousness impelling them to identify themselves with every reform movement, an overwhelming majority of the voters should and I believe will, other things being equal, support those candidates whose nominations are free from the corrupting influences of bargain and sale.

No act of mine shall dissuade the great party of Jefferson, Jackson and Wilson to the favor and devotion of those who are unalterably opposed to political parties and their nominations being made the playthings of those who seek particular favors and special privileges at the expense of all.

Every Democrat and every progressive member of every other political party in the state, who shares the views above expressed is very respectfully solicited to cast his lot with us, both in the primary and general election.

Of the reactionary forces that are now controlling the government, and constantly advancing to new victories over the people, it is high time for every patriot to declare "They shall not pass." If this declaration is made, let us hope that it will be translated into action on election day, by every progressive and forward-looking voter's casting a ballot for a change.

Very respectfully submitted,
M. M. NEELEY.

H. A. DEEM IN FATAL ACCIDENT

Howard Addison Deem, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Deem, of Parsons, met with a fatal accident near Williamson last Saturday afternoon about five o'clock when an automobile in which he was riding from Williamson to Matewan left the road and went down over an embankment of about ninety feet.

A telegram giving the news of the sad accident was received at the home here Sunday morning and the mother and younger brother were grief stricken and the news quickly spread over the community.

Howard was born at Piedmont this state, August 13, 1897, and would have been twenty five years of age next August. During the late war he enlisted in the cause of his country in April 1918, and was discharged with honors in 1919. After leaving the service he enlisted with the forces of the West Virginia State Police in which line of duty he was serving at the time of his death. He leaves to mourn their loss his father, who was employed at Williamson at the time of the accident, his mother, one brother and one sister besides a large number of friends and comrades in the police forces. The remains arrived home Monday afternoon accompanied by his father and Messrs. C. T. Swift, of Matewan, and W. W. Creasey, of Kenova, both officers of the state police forces. The remains were immediately taken to the home on River street where funeral services were conducted Tuesday morning at ten o'clock by Rev. J. S. Thornburg of the M. E. Church, and Rev. Jonathan Wood, of the Baptist Church, officiating. The services were attended by a large number of local ex-service men and the local company of home guards, all uniformed, and a large attendance of friends of the Deem family. Interment was made in the city cemetery.

The following report of the accident is given us by Officer C. T. Swift: A number of the police forces who were stationed at Matewan had received order to make a raid near Williamson and the raid had been made and the police were back to Williamson awaiting a train for Matewan. The train was an hour late and a man and a lady appeared in an automobile going to Matewan and invited Howard and a traveling salesman with whom he was talking to go along with them. They consented to go and when the car had gotten less than half a mile out of Williamson where the road was high and narrow something went wrong and the car left the road going down over the hillside a distance of about ninety feet. Howard met death instantly and the other two men were badly cut and bruised while the lady was in the hospital in a dying condition according to last reports before the officers left Williamson.

The accident was very sad indeed and the bereaved parents, brother and sister have the deepest heartfelt sympathy of the entire community.
